WASTE IN HIGHWAYS

HALF THE MONEY SPENT IN PUBLIC ROADS IS THROWN AWAY.

'GOOD ROADS,' UNIVERSAL CRY

Everybody Wants Something Done, but Nearly Every Community Is Groping in the Dark—Time to Face About and Try for Better Results.

By HOWARD H. GROSS.

No one who is familiar with the way road work has been handled for the last twenty years will dispute that half of the time and money expended upon our public roads by the hit and miss methods employed has been wasted. Most observers will say the waste is even greater. The country over, the outlay approximates $30,000,000. We have gone on from generation to generation pursuing this absurd plan, or rather lack of plan. It is a most unbusinesslike and reprehensible proceeding. No business enterprise could last a year with such a fearful waste. A calculation made with great care by one of the best authorities in the state, contends the direct waste on Illinois roads by doing requires considerable engineering experience the farmer does not and is not expected to have. It is no reflection upon him to say he is not a successful road builder—any more than it would be to question his ability in carpentry. To have the best supervision the township or road district is too small a unit. The mileage is too limited to make it practical to have an experienced road builder in charge. Hence the present thought that the county should be the road district, or perhaps there might be two districts in large counties. The road supervisor should be a capable, experienced engineer employed by the year, or the season. Let him get the necessary tools, men and teams and do the work when it ought to be done. When grading is necessary, the earlier in the spring it is done the better. The surface ought not to be disturbed after the first of July.

The first and most important step is road drainage. No drain, no road. It is exceedingly important to have one in charge who knows his business. As road drainage will be treated at length in another article, the writer will not elaborate upon it at this time. The drains can be laid at any season when the frost is out of the ground. Culverts can be built, the roads dredged, weeds cut, etc. This will give work from early spring until fall.

With the county as a unit, a five-year campaign of grading and drafting, beginning with the main roads and extending the work in the Entered at the Greenville, Ky., postoffice as second-class matter.

The honesty of New York was disclosed by the fact that when a citizen found a $10 bill on the street he gave it to a policeman to be restored to the owner; and the enterprise of the city was exhibited by the fact that as soon as the story was known nearly half the population put in a claim for the money.

JOHN MARSHALL HARLAN, the oldest member of the Supreme Court of the United States, died at his home in Washington City last Saturday, after an illness of less than a week from bronchitis. He had served on the bench for almost 34 years, and only two men had served longer, and that by only a few months. Judge Harlan was a native Kentuckian, being born in Boyle county, and was one of our most distinguished sons. He was a bright man, earnest and honest, and his career on the bench was one of which any man might be proud. He was a Christian gentleman of the highest and best type, and it was often said of him "he keeps the Bible in one hand and the constitution in the other."

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

A short service of about half an hour will be held on Sunday afternoon, in the interest of Bible study. Mr. W. G. Duncan will give a short talk on "The Importance of Bible Study." Mr. T. O. Jones will speak briefly on "The Benefits of Systematic Bible Study."

The Association has planned to conduct three systematic Bible classes this season. If you have never been in one of these classes you should be present at this meeting and hear the plan presented. There will be a class for seniors taught by Mr. T. N. Belcher. Their theme will be "The Social Teachings of Jesus." This is an up-to-date course and is very interesting and instructive. Also a class for the Intermediate and High School Boys, taught by Mr. C. W. Taylor, and will study the course "Life Questions." This is one of the most important courses which the committee has mapped out for our use.

The Junior class will be taught by Secretary Anderson and the course will be announced on Sunday afternoon. This is the "Little Fellows" class and we are often overlooked, but when the season is over and the pennant is awarded to the best class in attendance, etc., we expect to be among the foremost.

These classes are not for Y. M. C. A. members only, but every man and boy in Greenville and vicinity is invited to enter the class into which he belongs. Be sure to attend the meeting Sunday afternoon whether you expect to enter a class or not. Of course you will want to get in the class to which you belong and help them win the pennant. All men and boys are very earnestly invited and requested to be present on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Our readers should not overlook the article by Rondo in this issue. It is one of the most interesting things he has written in some time.

Judge O'Rear spoke to a large crowd here last Thursday afternoon in his interest as candidate for Governor, and for the remainder of the Republican ticket. This was his first appearance in the county in a public address, and the first time that most of his listeners had heard him. He is a clear, logical talker and thinker, and his talk impressed the people with his earnestness and honesty, and he made friends here.

He is not an orator, and makes no pretense or effort in that direction, but he leaves a lasting impression on those who hear him.

THE ALLISON FAMILY

Pioneers and Factors in Muhlenberg's History

Some weeks ago Young E. Allison, of Louisville, who is an associate editor of the Insurance Field, a trade journal of prominence, was in Greenville on a visit to relatives. Mr. Allison is a son of Young E. Allison Sr., who was born and reared in Muhlenberg county.

Samuel Allison, the father of Young E. Allison Sr., was born in Ireland and came, with his parents, to this country and located in North Carolina. In after years he came to Tennessee and there married Margaret Dixon, and in 1801 they came to Muhlenberg county and located about four miles southwest of Greenville, near where the Friendship church now stands. At this place Samuel Allison and his wife lived, died and were buried. Samuel Allison died in 1827, his wife in 1834. To Samuel and Margaret Dixon Allison were born and reared five sons and one daughter.

Charles M., the oldest son, born 1796; died 1815.

William Dixon, the second son, born 1798; died 1860.

Young E., the third son, born 1801; died 1874.

John A., the fourth son, born 1803; died 1875.

Samuel H., the fifth son; born 1805; date of death unknown to writer.

Nancy R., born 1810; died 1864.

Samuel Allison Sr. was said to be a man of rare wit and humor. It is said that in the last years of his life he had a spell of sickness during which, at one time he was thought to be dying. His friends gathered around him and while some of them were lending down watching him, he made a sudden loud puff at them which at once dispelled their grief.

John A. Allison, a son of Samuel Allison, lived and died in Muhlenberg county. He was married in 1825 to Fanny Watkins, who was born in 1803 and died in 1887. She was a daughter of James Watkins, of English descent. They settled about two and one half miles west of Greenville, where they lived and died. They were buried at the old Liberty church burying ground. To John A. and Fanny Watkins Allison were born and reared four sons and one daughter.

James W., the oldest son, was born in 1826 and died in 1870. In 1849 he married Laura A. Martin, a daughter of Hudson Martin. They remained in Muhlenberg county until 1855 when they moved to Missouri, where James Allison and several of his children died, after which his wife came back to Kentucky, where she now survives in Greenville at the age of eighty-five. She brought back with her two children, a son, B. F. Allison, now residing in Oakland, California, a daughter, Annie, who afterwards married and in a short time died in 1890.

Finis M., the second son of John Allison, was born in 1829 and died in Greenville, Ky., in 1866. When young he was made a deputy clerk under Charles F. Wing and served several years. He also studied law. In 1852 he went to California and in 1854 returned to Kentucky and located at Morgantown, Butler county, where he was elected Circuit and County clerk, which offices he held for several years. In 1865 he came to Greenville and commenced the practice of law. In 1867 he was elected to the State Senate, afterwards was appointed Tobacco Inspector and then appointed United States Commissioner, afterwards practiced law until his death. He was married in 1849 to Julia A. Burks, a daughter of Foster James, of Butler county; she died during the year 1900; to them were born and reared six children, three sons and three daughters, Finis, John and James; Lucy, Alice and Naomi. Finis became a doctor and preacher and died in the western part of the state. John was a prominent lawyer and practiced law in Greenville, where he died in 1903. James went to Chicago, where he died in 1898. Lucy married Joseph Frazier and went to Texas. Two daughters are now living in Greenville, Mrs. Alice Stokes and Mrs. Naomi Lovell.

Samuel H., the third son of John Allison, born 1832, left the state in early manhood and died in Wisconsin in 1855.

William, the fourth son of John Allison, born 1839, died at Hopkinsville, Ky., in 1875.

Annie L., daughter of John Allison, born in 1855, married Britton Davis in 1859 and died in 1886. To them were born five children, three of whom died in early life. Two daughters survive in the county, Mrs. Belle Duvall and Mrs. Pearl Elkins.

John A. Allison was a good citizen, of moral habits, and a man of good sense and information. He was of jovial temperament: it seemed to do him great good to get a crowd of people around him and tell anecdotes and jokes. He was full of wit and of quick discernment; he was rather timid and bashful man. We have heard him say that he always disliked to approach a crowd of people, that his hands seemed to be greatly in his way and he did not know what to do with them.

Samuel Allison settled in a neighborhood with other pioneer settlers who raised families that grew up with the Allisons. These families were that of Henry Black, Jerry Langley, Mathew Rice, Kennard Hay and Richard Reynolds all of whom were good men. The young men that grew up in the same neighborhood with the Allison boys were Wiley, Kincheon and Charles Hay, Henry, Felix and Nathan Black, John, Thomas and George Reynolds, William, Wesley and Sylvanus Langley, Reson, William and Clarborne Rice; all these sons of pioneers became prominent men. Out of the sixteen mentioned ten became professional men. There is no other neighborhood in the county that has produced a better set of men than were produced in the Sam Allison neighborhood. The Black boys grew up and left the county. Felix Black became a prominent Methodist preacher and located in Cincinnati. Henry Black became a Cumberland Presbyterian preacher and located in Illinois. Nathan became a lawyer of distinction and located in western Kentucky. Wesley and Sylvanus Langley went south. William remained in the county. John Reynolds located at Hopkinsville, Ky. Thomas became a Methodist preacher and located in Louisiana. George went to Illinois. Wiley Hay remained in the county and became a prominent man. Kincheon became a Baptist preacher and located in Illinois. Charles became a Cumberland Presbyterian preacher and located in the western part of Kentucky. Dixon, Young and Samuel Allison located in Henderson county, Ky., where Dixon became the Circuit clerk and Young the County clerk, which offices they held for many years. They all raised families, the history of whom we are not informed.

Reson Rice, who married Louise Black, remained in the county and settled near the old Black home instead. He was a man of fine sense and information but he had an awkward appearance and movement, and in a common way was not a glib talker. Upon one occasion he had a lawsuit of some interest and acted as his own attorney in the case, having studied law some but had never practiced; and when he assumed his case the judge and lawyers seemed to be amused as if they expected some fun, as Rice was a little slow in getting off. But as the case proceeded Rice began to handle it with considerable skill, and when he made his speech he straightened up and with the fire of his unexpected eloquence astonished the whole outfit and won his case. He was afterwards regarded as a man of ability.

In the conclusion of this article we shall add that all these sons of pioneers mentioned would gather at the old log school house in the neighborhood of Samuel Allison, where they learned their first lessons from Kennard Hay, a school teacher. The school house was also used for religious worship, and was called Hickory Withe, and there they would carry on debating societies every year and by practice some of them became good speakers and in after years became distinguished as speakers. These sons of the pioneer families of the Samuel Allison neighborhood have long since disappeared from the walks of life.

After the death of Samuel Allison and his wife, the old homestead passed into the hands of John Staples who reared a large family on it, where he built a horse mill which was run for years. At this old horse mill John A. Allison, Reson Rice and John Staples would often meet and discuss history, religion and politics; they were all well posted in such matters. After the Staples family had abandoned the Allison homestead it passed into different hands and is now owned by one William McWirters.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery
prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pill lets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

He discussed State as well as National issues, and made enthusiastic predictions of Democratic victories all along the line. There are few more popular politicians here than Mr. Stanley.

Fire at Central City.

Fire discovered at 3 o'clock Monday morning at Central City destroyed two frame buildings and contents and did several thousand dollars damage, all well covered by insurance. The fire is thought to have started in the grocery store of Henry Kittinger, who lives above the store. He succeeded in saving some of his household goods and a small amount of stock, as did J. R. Carr, who conducted a grocery next door. The Cumberland Telephone exchange was up stairs over Carr's, and this was a total loss. The origin of the fire is unknown, as there had been no fire about the building. The loss of the exchange worked a great hardship on Central City and the surrounding territory, as communication was entirely cut off: the company made every effort to hasten restoration, and a new board was received by express Tuesday, the connections being made by a force of men, and by the first of the week it is hoped normal conditions will exist.

A location was secured in the Gish bank building, on the second floor, and much better quarters are now occupied. Central City's fire department did great work, and the frames of the wooden buildings were left standing.

New Cypress Church Dedicated Sunday.

The dedication of the New Cypress church, on the Madisonville road, near Isbell's, last Sunday, drew an audience of at least 1,000 persons, and the day was one of interest to everyone who attended. Dr. Powell, of Louisville, delivered the dedicatory address, and it was done in a forceful manner, and was full of convincing thought. He was known personally to most of those in attendance, as he has been here on many similar occasions, and has doubtless dedicated more churches than any other man in Kentucky, almost every Sunday being devoted to this work. After the sermon he directed the raising of the $600 necessary to clear the church of debt, and this was done in record time, with some dollars to spare. Then Rev. W. H. Woodson delivered the dedicatory prayer, and after the pastor, Rev. Herndon, had made a short talk thanking the people for their liberality, everyone present was asked to the grove and partake of the free dinner which had been provided by the members and neighborhood friends. This was a bountiful and delightful affair, with all sorts of delicacies and substantial, and while the consumption was sufficient to have delighted the heart of every cook, there was enough left to have fed one or two more crowds of like proportions. The building dedicated is an attractive, commodious one, and is a credit to the members and the community. There are only about fifty members, and it is to their credit that they undertook and successfully carried out the providing of such a house of worship. It will serve quite a territory, and the membership will undoubtedly increase at a gratifying rate.

Woman Socialist Speaks.

Mrs. O'Hara, editor of the Rip-Saw, a Socialist paper published in St. Louis, was here Monday, and spoke in the afternoon and evening at the court house. She drew the largest number of people to town that have greeted a speaker this fall, and her talks were full of thought-provoking facts. Her manner of solution lacked somewhat in clearness, but her contentions of corruption were clear-cut and unmistakable, and she left no doubt in the minds of her listeners that political, commercial and social conditions were such as to warrant the greatest anxiety, and an effort to put things to rights. The Socialist party has developed wonderful strength in the past few years, and its growth here has kept up with other sections. The leaders here claim that 500 votes will be cast at this election for the Socialist candidates, and everyone concedes that unless there is a defection this will not be far from the number.

ACTIVE INDIAN RUNNER DUCK

Small Breed, noted for its Egg Production and Tamed the Leghorn of the Duck Family.

By GEORGE E. HOWARD
These ducks came originally from India; hence the name Indian. The term "Runner" comes from the fact that they literally run instead of waddling like most ducks.

The Indian Runner is a breed of small, utility duck noted for its egg production, and is often termed the Leghorn of the duck family. These ducks have been credited with records of more than 200 eggs each in flocks of ten, and 182 eggs each in flocks of one hundred. The "Runners" are good layers, are good foragers, and on an extensive run are able to find a large proportion of their food. They are non-setters, are hardy and easily reared, but do not stand confinement well. Their flesh is of a deep yellow color and is of fine quality, but their small size is rather against them for market purposes, except for broilers.

The standard-bred Indian Runner has a long, flat, finely formed head of a light fawn or gray and white color, the former being preferred. The head should be adorned with cap and cheek markings of light fawn or gray, the cap being divided from the cheek markings by a narrow line of white about one-eighth of an inch wide. The bill is of unusual length, fairly broad and strong at the base. In the ducklings the bill is of a yellow color, spotted with green. When fully matured, the bill should be green in color with a black bean.

The eyes are of a hazel color and set light in the head. The neck is unusually long and slender and white in color from head to the beginning of the breast markings. The back is long and narrow and of a light fawn or gray color. The breast is round and of a light fawn or gray color, evenly divided about halfway between the point of the breast bone and the legs. The body is long, narrow and carried erect, with no indication of keel, somewhat resembling that of a Penguin in shape, and is of a light fawn or gray color. The wings are of medium length and carried close to the body, the shoulders and top part of the wings being of the same color as the breast. The tail is composed of hard, stiff feathers, the six feathers of the drake being well curled. The color of the tail is light fawn or gray. The legs should be of medium length and set well apart; the toes straight and connected by web. The shanks and toes should be of a deep, bright yellow.

The standard weight of the drake is 4½ pounds and of the duck 4 pounds.

POULTRY NOTES

Do not forget the shady nooks. The fowls need them.

Houses must be kept sanitary and the fowls free from vermin.

It is the even, steady drift of our stock that makes them pay a profit.

The comb not only denotes egg laying, but the general condition of the hen.

Lice are working havoc, and too severe measures cannot be adopted to destroy them.

Already the fowls are assuming a rusty appearance. It is getting near their molting season.

It should be remembered that chicks do not need any feed for the first 12 to 36 hours after hatching.

It is preferable to keep a box of dry chaff constantly before the fowls, allowing them to eat all they wish.

To insure fertile eggs, it is most essential that the breeding stock should be as well fed as timely mated.

The growing cockerels should now be separated from the pullets, and the former given an extra allowance of feed.

Three-fourths of the diseases could be traced to impure air, dampness, improper food, close breeding and ill-chosen conditions.

A hen that goes around with her mouth open is not a comfortable hen; it is too warm. Give her a place to sit down and cool off.

Throw open the windows every night, but tack some wide-meshed cloth of some kind over them to keep out things that have no business in the house.

If farmers would use the same judgment in feeding their poultry as they use in feeding their dairy cows they would soon find the results quite satisfactory.

As much poultry feed as possible should be grown on the farm, but additional feeds may be bought as necessary, such as bran middlings, gluten meal or beef scraps.

"I Suffered Years With My Back."

Backache resulting from weak kidneys, a bad cold or other cause, usually renders the sufferer unfit for work and often results in permanent disability.

I suffered for years with my back, or kidney trouble, and have tried a number of remedies from different physicians. More than a year ago, one of our local druggists induced me to try and after using them some three months I found a decided improvement in my kidneys, and I am glad to say that I hope soon to be fully restored to health." J. P. ALLEN, Ex-Judge City Court, Glasgow, Ky.

As long as pain is present in any part of the body rest is impossible and the system becoming weakened is exposed to any form of disease to which the sufferer may be inclined.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills
by steady the irritated nerve centers, make refreshing sleep possible, thereby enabling the body to recover lost strength. As a remedy for pain of any description Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are unsurpassed.
